

Mark “Marky Jr” Elworth
for Congressional District #5

Mark Elworth Jr is a lifelong activist who began challenging establishment politics in high school by writing in support of Ross Perot for President and fighting for a skateboard park to be built in his hometown.

In 1995, he started collected petition signatures for medical marijuana initiatives across multiple states, becoming a longtime advocate for patient rights and personal freedom. He later found his home in the Libertarian movement during the Gary Johnson and Jim Gray presidential campaign.

In 2014, he ran for Governor of Nebraska as a Libertarian. He has been organizing, running, and fighting for liberty ever since, and considers himself an activist, not a politician.
